

ABSTRACT

Embodiments of methods, apparatuses and/or systems for routing a flow of frame in a core-edge switch configuration are disclosed. For example, a method of routing a flow of frames may include receiving at least one frame; selecting an exit port of a switch for the at least one frame to exit based, at least in part, on balancing frame traffic in the core-edge switch configuration; and transmitting the at least one frame.